President's Message

This is my last President's Message as I finish my term. As you may remember, I stepped up because nobody else was willing to take the position, but I am very glad I took the helm of MSNA this past cycle. I had been MSNA President many years ago, and I felt it was very important to keep MSNA moving ahead into the future.

In this upcoming election cycle, I understand that we will again have at least one candidate for this key office. It is important that we staff the officer and board of directors positions so we can do the necessary planning and make the decisions that will help MSNA be active and meaningful well into the future.

Let me take this opportunity to say a few words about the state and future of the MSNA as I see it. MSNA has a long and proud history. One of our members (Don Curtis) even captured this history in a reference publication for our thirtieth anniversary which highlighted MSNA's history and accomplishments. There were many. Like all organizations, and indeed the hobby itself, MSNA has lived with peaks and valleys. It is fair and accurate to say that MSNA is now going through some challenges. For years, MSNA hosted a major annual coin show. MSNA has hosted and co-hosted several ANA conventions. MSNA has held speaker programs at such events to help promote hobby education and growth. MSNA still sponsors the annual exhibits program at the Whitman Coin Show. All of these activities and many others help support our hobby, collectors, and MSNA member clubs in Maryland.

Currently here are three major shows a year by Whitman and numerous smaller shows that support our hobby; therefore, an MSNA show would be superfluous. The speaker program did not draw enough hobbyists so it went away. The MSNA Exhibit Program at Whitman and our Maryland Numismatist publication represent the core of MSNA's current public face for the betterment and growth of our hobby. Both are very important and well received. MSNA is still committed to these goals even in a time of lessened activity. I believe that we must maintain our efforts in this less active current environment not only because this is the reality we face now but more importantly, things do change. In the future, we may need to put on a show again or speaker programs or other educational efforts. The best way to quickly react to these future needs will be from an existing and strong organization committed to promoting and supporting our hobby.

Please support MSNA any way you can starting with the upcoming election. Please run for office, vote, get MSNA a new member, or write an article for the Maryland Numismatist. It is your hobby, it is your organization. Thanks for your support during my last term.

American Numismatic Association Worlds' Fair of Money Report

MSNA members were in evidence at the ANA convention in Chicago, held August 12 to 17.

MSNA life member Michael Shutterly won second place in Ancients for Shining Lights in a Dark Age, second place in Europe for Viva le Franc!, and his Buy the Books for the Coin won first place in Numismatic Literature.

MSNA Treasurer and Editor Simcha Kuritzky won first place in Engraved Coins for Engraved Coins of the 'Abrahamic Faiths,' first place in Elongateds for Feline Elongated Type Set, first place in Middle East for Henrietta Szold and Her Legacy, and second place in Gold for Israel's Two-Decade-Long Road to Standardized Gold Coinage.

Both the Tokens and Medals Society and the Numismatic Literary Guild (NLG) awarded David Schenkman best numismatic article on tokens and medals for his article James Murdock, Jr. Ohio Die Sinker which appeared in The Numismatist. His regular column there won Best Column from the NLG.

Local Coin Shows Report

MSNA members were in evidence at the Virginia Numismatic Association annual coin show in Fredericksburg and at the Pennsylvania Association of Numismatists semi-annual coin show in Pittsburgh.

MSNA life member Michael Shutterly won first place in Individual Exhibitors for Shining Lights in a Dark Age, and second place for Viva le Franc! in the same class.

MSNA Treasurer and Editor Simcha Kuritzky won second place in World Coins for Israel's Two-Decade-Long Road to Standardized Gold Coinage and third place in Exonumia for Paleo-Hebrew in Israel Numismatics.

MSNA Life Member and PAN Secretary Tom Corey presented MSNA Secretary Bryce Doxzon a certificate of appreciation for serving as exhibits judge. Bryce also put in his Star Spangled Banner medal exhibit non-competitively because it won first place in Exonumia previously at a PAN coin show.

The Three-Dollar Gold Piece

How Do We Collect When the Whole Series is Rare?

Mark Benvenuto, MSNA #R-825

There are some United States coin series that are popular now with collectors and the general public and have been so for decades. Morgan and Peace dollars come quickly to mind. So do Franklin, Walking Liberty, and Barber halves. To an extent, even $20 gold pieces are a popular item, if we can afford them. But some series never really captured the collectors' eye, and one of them is an entire series that qualifies as rare: the relatively long-lived but under-appreciated three-dollar gold pieces.

Seriously, how does a person go about collecting this series when virtually every date and mint mark is hard to find? Let's go through the series in detail and see if we might put together a game plan.

The 1854

The first year to see James Longacre's new design was 1854, and that is the only year this new coin came out of three different mints. We'll come back to the two branch mints in a moment. Of note is that, in 1854 at the main facility in the City of Brotherly Love, 138,618 of the $3 gold pieces were produced. Let's focus on that number a bit. This is the single most common date/mintmark in the series, and yet it is less than one-third that of the 1909-S VDB cent, or about half that as the 1916-D Mercury dime. Yes, the most common date is that rare.

Okay, if there is good news here, it is that the first of the $3 gold pieces appears to have been enough of a novelty that folks kept one, or perhaps decided the one they had was too valuable to spend. The reason we can say that is because quite a few of them can be found in the lower grades of mint state. None of them are cheap, but they are available.

Next, the 1878

Almost all of us will end up starting any set of $3 gold pieces with that 1854, simply because that's the date we'll probably see at any good-sized show, shop, or on-line sales site. But the next highest mintage goes to the 1878 with 82,304 to its tally. No less an authority reference than the Red Book claims that, "In 1874 and 1878, mintages were increased significantly in anticipation of the coins going into broader circulation." That's quite a statement, and we might wish to examine it in terms of the math behind it.

In 1870, the United States again had a national census, in order to determine the number of Congress members in the House. The nation officially had 38,925,598 people living in it. That number absolutely dwarfs that just-mentioned mintage of $3 coins. Even the city of Philadelphia had 674,022 people living in it in 1870. Once again, that population is huge compared to the $3 gold pieces produced in 1878. We'll not argue that the 1878 mintage was higher than all the previous years except the 1854. We will argue strenuously that the total was nowhere near what would have been needed in terms of making a difference to the general population of the country, or even the local area – since there would have been one $3 gold piece per 4,729 people.

The 1855 and the 1874

The third and fourth highest mintages in this series are these two dates. While neither has half the mintage of the 1854, their output doesn't qualify as tiny. Probably the most noteworthy tidbit for either of these dates is that they represent the last members of the series to have reasonable prices. Yes, each will cost thousands of dollars in mint state, but even the frugal collectors among us ought to be able to save up for them.

Any Date with Mintage More than Ten Thousand

There is a further handful of $3 gold pieces for which more than 10,000 were produced. The twin challenges that go into adding these to any collection are, first, finding them, and second, seeing if we saved enough to buy them. Once again, these are not going to be cheap coins.

The Mintmarks

We saved the best for last here, meaning the seven coins in the series that have some mint mark on them. Most are the 'S' of the West Coast branch, but the two with arguably the most colorful backgrounds are from much closer by, Dahlonega, Georgia and New Orleans. The short-lived branch Mint in Georgia was started up simply to coin locally mined gold. For one year only there are some 1854-D $3 gold pieces – only 1,120 of them. The 1854-O is more common, if we consider 24,000 coins common. As far as price tags? Well, if you guessed that the 'D' brings the price up, you're entirely right! Even a worn specimen of this rare beauty will cost as much as the down payment on some houses.

But we said "arguably" because the 1870-S is a unique coin, like the 1849 $20 Coronet double eagle. It's simply uncollectible. But it's listed on the books.

The Beginning and the End?

It seems fairly obvious that there is a good starting point for the $3 gold pieces, that “common” 1854 first year of issue. Any aspiring collector can probably land one, even if they have to save up for a $1,000 purchase. But where to end? Well, that’s up to each of us, or perhaps up to our wallets. It might be an interesting long-term challenge to see how extensive a collection of these small gold pieces we can acquire in a year, or three, or five. For any of us up to it, here’s hoping the results are wonderful.

Editor’s Addendum

I started collecting mostly U.S. coins back in the 1970s, and within a few years got bored with date and mint sets, so I moved into collecting world coins by type, including U.S. By the time I moved into specializing in coins and medals portraying felines, Judaica, and amulets, I had filled my Dansco U.S. type album, including the gold coins, with the exception of the $3. Ironically, I bought my first $3 gold coin after I made the switch. In 2001, I bought from the late, great Steve Tanenbaum a $3 in a bezel with the first line of the Priestly Blessing (Numbers 6:24) in Hebrew (shown below). The next year, I bought at a Bowers & Marena auction in Baltimore a $3 with Latin-like inscription added that I subsequently learned came from the Sixth and Seventh Books of Moses where it supposedly prevents someone from dying suddenly if engraved on a gold plate. So there are other, slightly less expensive, ways to collect $3 gold coins. The large flan encouraged many jewelers to use them as the base for love tokens.

The Washington Numismatic Society showed a video on collecting £2 coins from circulation in Britain at their September meeting. President Simcha Kuritzky gave a talk on Magical Amulets at their October meeting, and is scheduled to talk on Modern Zionism and Numismatics at their November 19 meeting in honor of Balfour Day. Members and guests are invited to exhibit that day money and medals of the British Empire and Commonwealth. The WNS will hold their semi-annual pot-luck dinner at the December 17 meeting starting at 7 PM.

The Montgomery County Coin Club June meeting featured members' exhibits, and at the July meeting, members sold their extra coins in a bourse. Devan Gowdy spoke about his participation in this years' ANA Summer Seminar on Grading at the August meeting, and the September meeting was a celebration of the club's sixtieth anniversary. Scott Barman moderated a discussion on buying and selling coins on the Internet (outside of eBay) at the October meeting. Treasury Simcha Kuritzky will talk on Austrian calendar medals at the November 12 meeting, and the annual charity auction will take place at the December 10 meeting. Meetings start at 7:15 PM.

The Colonial Coin Club has moved their location from the Annapolis Library while it is under construction to the Crofton Library, 1681 Reidel Road. Club Historian Betty Meck will speak at the November 25 meeting, and their December 16 meeting will feature a holiday party, light refreshments, and contests. Meetings start at 7 PM and setup starts 6 PM.

What's Your Sign?

Part Forty-Three: Highland Mint Pendants

by Simcha Kuritzky, NLG

The Highland Mint was established in Melbourne, Florida in the early 1980s. It is a full-service mint that produces sports and other commemorative medals, bars, and also a zodiac series. The zodiac medals and certificates are not dated, but I didn't start seeing them for sale until 2007, so I suspect they were minted in the early 2000s. Each pure silver medal is encased in a sterling silver bezel attached to a sterling silver chain. According to the certificate of authenticity, the medal itself is 22mm and 8 grams. The examples I have show the bezel as adding 5mm around plus another 8mm for the loop, and between 3.5 and 4.2 grams to the weight. It does not appear possible to remove the medal from the bezel without destroying the frame. Each medal also is accompanied by a 2x2½" card describing the sun sign in black on a pale blue starry background. The Aries card gives the dates and three adjectives shown on the medal plus the description "The Arian is very open to new ideas and welcomes new challenges. The 'Ram' prefers to be a leader rather than a follower. Known for their intensity, passion runs high with Arians." The certificate says the mintage is limited to 100,000 medals but the highest number I've seen so far implies maybe 1,000 of each sign have been sold. These were sculpted by their head artist Caesar Rufo.

Each medal has the zodiac figure on the obverse, sometimes the entire figure and other times just a bust. The reverse has three concentric circles. The outer lists three adjectives to describe those born under the sign, at top, at left, and at right. The middle has the sign's Latin name and the dates in month dot date numeric format. In the center is the sign's sigil.

Zodiac Sign		Three Attributes	Dates
♈	Aries	Intuitive Optimistic Courageous	3.21 – 4.19
♉	Taurus	Generous Passionate Stubborn	4.20 – 5.20
♊	Gemini	Creative Vivacious Analytical	5.21 – 6.21

Zodiac Sign	Three Attributes	Dates
♋ Cancer	Romantic Sensitive Diplomatic	6.22 – 7.22
♌ Leo	Enthusiastic Confident Generous	7.23 – 8.22
♍ Virgo	Idealistic Intellectual Faithful	8.23 – 9.22

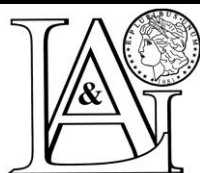

Zodiac Sign	Three Attributes	Dates
♎ Libra	Fair Charming Tenacious	9.23 – 10.23

I've managed to buy all of the signs on eBay except Cancer, but I found a photo of the missing medal.

This agreement made and entered into this _____ day of _____ 2020 by the MARYLAND STATE NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION, INC., Baltimore Convention Center, and Whitman Coin & Collectibles Expo LLC, hereinafter referred to as party of the first part; and _____ hereinafter referred to as party of the second part.

WITNESSETH: That for and in consideration of the opportunity to exhibit numismatic material which may consist of, but shall not be limited to, coins, tokens, medals, paper currency, and to compete against other exhibits for awards, the said parties mutually agree as follows:

I. That the party of the first part will provide security guards for the Bourse and Exhibit areas during the period of the show, and the presence of the security guards is provided as a convenience only and is not intended to be an expressed or implied warranty of guarantee against any loss or injury whatsoever.

II. That the party of the second part hereby remits, releases and forever discharges the party of the first part, its officers, committees, member clubs, host clubs, members and employees either in their official corporate capacity, or in their individual or personnel capacity of and from all manner of actions, causes of actions, suits, proceedings, debts, contracts, judgments, damages, claims, and any loss, theft or damage of any kind which may occur to its possessions and exhibits howsoever sustained either directly or indirectly in connection with said convention and show including but not limited to the Bourse-Exhibit area or other convention space, and the street area near the Baltimore Convention Center and that the party of the first part, its officers, committees, club members, host clubs, or employees, may plead this release in bar of any claim demand, or cause of action instituted by the party of the second part.

III. That the party of the second part does, by this instrument, covenant with the said party of the first part to forever refrain from instituting or in any way aiding any claim, demand, action or cause of action, for damages, as a result of any loss or theft to the party of the second part during the said convention and show.
